

Blue Water Navy Vietnam Veterans Association

WHO ARE WE?

We are the Blue Water Navy Vietnam Veterans Association (BWNVVA), a non-profit support and advocacy organization currently focusing on issues of dioxin as related to off shore activities during the Vietnam War, but offering support and assistance to veterans of all wars.

Our web site offers the largest repository of Agent Orange- and other toxin-related documentation from military of other sources aggregated in a single location of the Internet. See www.bluewaternavy.org

This web site contains a vast collection of information of interest to all branches of the armed services, veteran service organizations, legislators and researchers. The information is made freely available to all.

We also host an interactive forum for veteran-related issues. This multi-thread discussion board is located at: <http://bluewaternavy.org/phpBB2/index.php> and requires registration for access and participation to all the forums. Not all forums can be seen without going through the registration process. The Discussion Board can be entered at the URL given above, or there are several links to it on the web site.

In-depth discussions can be found there on a variety of topics such as legislation, "How-To's" on dealing with the DVA, shared claims and filing experiences, mutual support and question and answer sessions. It is the primary gathering place for Blue Water Navy Association members, their families, friends, visitors and concerned individuals and organizations.

We cordially invite you not just to stop by and make good use of our vast collection of documentation material, but to JOIN OUR ORGANIZATION both as a supporter of the Blue Water Navy issues and a supporter of our in-house and outreach veteran advocacy programs. Membership enrollment information can be found on the web site.

We look forward to seeing you on-line.
